Base Ball. THE MEETING OF THE LEAGUE.

The national league meeting at New York has been in session two days, and has accomplished much in the way of helping the national game from a professional standpoint, as the game has now grown to be a business and not a sport where the big associations are considered.

The minor changes in the rules were soon forgotten for the time when it was learned that the league had passed an amendment to the constitution, whereby players would be put into five different sees, and the highest salery a player
